American Resilience Fund

MARKETING COMMUNICATION | INTERNATIONAL EQUITY TEAM | ESG FACTCARD | 30 SEPTEMBER 2025

American Resilience is a concentrated equity portfolio of high quality, well managed, U.S. companies. Based on our team’s proven approach to high quality investing, the Fund seeks to invest in strong businesses with pricing power and recurring revenues which we believe should provide investors with reduced downside participation during challenging market environments and resilient returns over the long term. We use bottom-up fundamental analysis and actively engage with company management to identify material ESG risks to company fundamentals and/or the sustainability of future returns. The Fund has a significantly lower carbon footprint than the S&P 500.¹

The Funds are Carbon Light

While Scope 3 emissions—indirect emissions relating to the supply chain (upstream) and customers’ logistics and product use emissions (downstream)—are harder to quantify and companies have limited direct control over them, many companies are trying to better understand and report on their full value chain emissions. Taking all three scopes into account, the funds are 73% lower than S&P 500 per $1m sales, and 85% lower per $1m invested.

Risk Considerations

- The fund relies on other parties to fulfill certain services, investments or transactions. If these parties become insolvent, it may expose the fund to financial loss.
- Sustainability factors can pose risks to investments, for example: impact asset values, increased operational costs.
- There may be an insufficient number of buyers or sellers which may affect the fund's ability to buy or sell securities.
- Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. Returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. The value of investments and the income from them can go down as well as up and investors may lose all or a substantial portion of his or her investment.
- The value of the investments and the income from them will vary and there can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objectives.
- Investments may be in a variety of currencies and therefore changes in rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. Furthermore, the value of investments may be adversely affected by fluctuations in exchange rates between the investor's reference currency and the base currency of the investments.
- The fund may be impacted by movements in the exchange rates between the fund's currency and the currencies of the fund's investments.
