MS INVF Global Balanced Income Fund 2018: Target Income Level

SOLUTIONS & MULTI-ASSET | GLOBAL BALANCED RISK CONTROL TEAM | NOTICE | DECEMBER 2017

The investment objective of the Morgan Stanley Investment Funds (MS INVF) Global Balanced Income Fund (the “Fund”) is to provide regular income and capital appreciation, measured in Euro, through investing primarily in a portfolio of transferable securities and money market instruments globally and through the use of financial derivative instruments.

On an annual basis, we provide an estimate of the income level for the following calendar year. The income generated for the Fund has two components: 1.) the income from dividends and coupons received from the Fund’s fixed income and equity investments; and 2.) an enhanced income stream derived by selling liquid put options on three major equity indices. The premium income derived from selling put options is primarily driven by the implied volatility of these instruments.

Having reviewed the prevailing volatility environment, we estimate an anticipated annual income level for 2018 of 5%. This is an estimated level of income only and actual income may vary; lower or higher levels of income may be achieved. Income generation from any source is not guaranteed and depends, inter alia, on market conditions and the performance of individual investments held in the Fund.

Investors should be aware that different share classes have different distribution policies. This is likely to affect the level of income distributed on different share classes and whether some distribution of capital alongside income may be made. In particular, investors should be aware that shares with the sub-indicator “R” (such as Class AR or BR) may distribute capital as well as income and that, depending on the level of income and distributions made, product expenses may be charged to capital. For more information about the distribution policy and risks associated with different share classes please refer to the Fund’s prospectus and KIIDs.

The income estimate is reviewed at least annually, is indicative only and is not guaranteed. When income for any share class is paid from capital, or expenses are charged to capital, the result will be a reduction of the capital that the Fund has available for investment in respect of that share class. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its objectives.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS

- The value of bonds are likely to decrease if interest rates rise and vice versa.
- The value of financial derivative instruments are highly sensitive and may result in losses in excess of the amount invested by the Sub-Fund.
- Issuers may not be able to repay their debts, if this happens the value of your investment will decrease. This risk is higher where the fund invests in a bond with a lower credit rating.
- The fund relies on other parties to fulfil certain services, investments or transactions. If these parties become insolvent, it may expose the fund to financial loss.
- There may be an insufficient number of buyers or sellers which may affect the funds ability to buy or sell securities.
- There are increased risks of investing in emerging markets as political, legal and operational systems may be less developed than in developed markets.
- The derivative strategy aims to increase the income paid to investors, but there is potential for the fund to suffer losses.
- Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. Returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. The value of investments and the income from them can go down as well as up and investors may lose all or a substantial portion of his or her investment.
- The value of the investments and the income from them will vary and there can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objectives.

- Investments may be in a variety of currencies and therefore changes in rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. Furthermore, the value of investments may be adversely affected by fluctuations in exchange rates between the investor's reference currency and the base currency of the investments.
